A wide-angle photograph of a volcanic landscape. In the foreground, there are jagged, dark brown and reddish-brown volcanic rocks. The middle ground shows a vast, flat, reddish-brown landscape with several small, dark, irregular shapes that could be craters or pools of lava. In the background, there are several large, conical hills or volcanoes, some with dark, forested slopes and others with reddish-brown slopes. The sky is a clear, pale blue.

A unique land that gave rise to a unique brand.

Our Story

With an innate passion for gastronomy and a pioneering spirit, Don Bernardo, who had been living on the island of Lanzarote for a decade, transformed the prickly pear, a local but undervalued fruit, into an exquisite jam that captured the essence of the Canarian archipelago in his restaurant in 1993.

With the company's foundation in 1995, Don Bernardo's commitment was solidified not just to culinary innovation but also to the development of a brand that would serve as a bridge between Lanzarote and the world. Operating from an island presented unique challenges, from limited resource availability to the logistical complexities of distribution. However, these obstacles only served to sharpen our creativity and strengthen our determination. Each jar of jam, adorned with a handwritten label, became a testament to our ability to overcome the inherent difficulties of our island location.

The expansion into the Canary market and beyond was a journey marked by resilience and excellence in quality. The introduction of aloe vera jams in 2016 and the move to an industrial area in 2017 were strategic steps toward improving our production while always maintaining the artisanal soul of our products. The launch of Sürest gin in 2022 symbolized a new chapter in our history, highlighting our evolution from a small initiative to becoming a reference in island gastronomy.

From those initial experiments in a restaurant kitchen to becoming ambassadors of Canarian culture, our story is one of passion, innovation, and a deep respect for the natural resources provided to us. In every product we offer, the unwavering commitment to quality that Don Bernardo established from the beginning is reflected. Despite the years and changes, we remain true to our mission of sharing Lanzarote's unique flavors with the world, leveraging the lessons learned in this unique island environment to inspire every step we take toward the future.

The Distillery

We began our journey into the world of distillation in 2016, immersing ourselves in an intensive research and development phase that bore fruit with the arrival of our first copper still at the end of 2021. Our 2022 was marked by relentless testing that culminated in November with the launch of two exceptional spirits under the brand "Sürest." This milestone established us as pioneers of gin distilled in Lanzarote and distinguished us in the Canary Islands landscape.

Both gins celebrate the uniqueness of Lanzarote. Since the island is synonymous with exceptional wines, we use wine alcohol to achieve a distillate of great finesse compared to those obtained from grains, along with a selection of botanicals, citrus, and native fruits. Our dedication and passion for excellence led us to participate in the prestigious World Gin Awards in London in 2024, where each of our gins received an award in its respective category, reaffirming our commitment to quality and innovation.

Sürest London Dry Gin stands out for its unique connection to the volcanic terrain of Lanzarote, offering a complex and nuanced sensory experience. On the nose, it unfolds a symphony of aromas that includes the freshness of juniper, the liveliness of citrus, the warmth of exotic spices, and a distinctive vegetal note provided by the prickly pear and cactus leaf. On the palate, it presents with a smooth and enveloping texture, characterized by a balanced interplay of juniper, citrus, spices, and a long finish that invites remembrance of its unique origin.

Ideal enjoyed neat, over ice or in carefully prepared cocktails, Sürest is not just a journey through the flavors and aromas of Lanzarote but also an expression of tradition and innovation. This gin represents a moment of deep connection with the unique essence of an exceptional land.

Sürest Cactus Gin redefines the gin experience with its distinctive profile that highlights the sweetness and fruitiness of the prickly pear, contrasting with the traditional London Dry. This variant exceptionally incorporates the natural sweetness and fruity notes of the prickly pear, softening the freshness of juniper and enriching the olfactory experience with a unique insular and exotic character. On the palate, the fruity and smooth entry leads to a development where the fruity sweetness is complemented by the creaminess of the cactus, offering a body that is fruitier and less dry, standing out for its smoothness and a persistent, sweet finish.

Pairing and cocktail recommendations focus on enhancing its fruity and sweet profile, suggesting the exploration of combinations that highlight the richness of the prickly pear. Sürest Cactus Gin is an invitation to experiment with the abundance of Lanzarote, offering a tasting experience that transcends the traditional and celebrates creativity and passion for innovation in distillation. Enjoying this gin means connecting with the vibrant essence and natural sweetness of Lanzarote.
